Father's Day Edition
June 2009

Dear Friends,

Every holiday I fight the same battle--what do I give Dad? Here's a guy who doesn't need anything but his family and his couch. He's read every book ever printed, hates golf, doesn't cook and isn't exactly a weekend warrior. When do I find the time to go shopping? How can one measly neck tie or car wash coupon show Dad how much I love him?

This year (Dad, if you're reading this, STOP!) I think my present for Dad will be some good ole' fashioned quality time. Perhaps we'll go have lunch or even try to escape to the stable where we used to ride horses when I was a little girl. This Father's Day, I want to give the gift of time, something that no one seems to have enough of anymore.

I hope you can make time for the dads in your life too. And if Dad is far off or he's passed away, spend some time cherishing your good memories.

Best wishes from our family to yours,
Maria Onesto Moran

Not Another Necktie! Gift Ideas for Dad

Nurture Dad's inner gardener with a tumbling composter, rain barrel, or worm bin! And there's still time to plant eco-happy tomato and bean plants locally grown by Farmer Kathy.
